Why Peacock and Binnington are paid a commission

The range and quality of the finance services we provide, along with our depth of knowledge and experience in the industry inherently come at a cost. Additionally P&B incur very significant costs in order to be able to introduce finance business and provide a professional service throughout the lifetime of your agreement, whilst maintaining our FCA authorization and other far reaching compliances.

Without earning commission, we would be unable to offer these services to you, or our finance manufacturers. We therefore hope this disclosure will allow you to understand why we are paid commission and why we are showing this to you now, in order for us to be perfectly transparent with you throughout the entire journey of your purchase.
